4-5 Keynote lecture: Professor Nicola Whyte (University of Exeter). Chair: John Morgan

'Sacred landscapes and the subterranean imagination'

About Nicola: My research is interdisciplinary and concerned with environmental humanities approaches to climate and environmental change. I am interested in crossing borders, troubling categories and decolonising conventional approaches to research and teaching. My research expertise lies in the landscape and social history of the post-medieval period (c. 1500 to the present). For more information see: <https://history.exeter.ac.uk/staff/whyte/>.
