

HISTORY UK AGM: THE FUTURE OF THE HUMANITIES

In recent years there has been a global conversation about the future of the humanities. Partly this has been in response to the rapidly changing education environment, the impact of budget cuts and calls for short-term accountability; partly it is a response to technological advances, and particularly digitisation, which are effecting change and transformation in the way society views, reads and understands culture and the humanities. In Britain, government policies have increasingly undermined the role that the humanities play in both schools and universities.

This event will draw together invited speakers to consider the attack on the humanities, the defence of the humanities, and to consider ways of looking to the future of the humanities in a positive way.

If you have any questions please email Lucie Matthews-Jones on l.m.mathew-jones@ljmu.ac.uk &/or Jamie Wood on jwood@lincoln.ac.uk

HTTP://WWW.HISTORY-UK.AC.UK/
@HISTORY\_UK

WHEN

Saturday 3rd November

10.30-4.00-4.50.

AGM : 3.30-4.50

WHERE

Institute of Historical Research, Senate House,

Mallet Road., London

SPEAKERS

Prof. Stefan Collini
(Cambridge)

Dr. Karen Salt (Nottingham)

Round table:

Dr. James Baker (Sussex)

Dr. Sara Barker (Leeds)

Sihong Lin (Manchester)

TICKETS

Free for all HistoryUK subscribing members

£40 non-subscribing departments.

£15 PhD, ECR and additional representation

<https://>

www.eventbrite.com/e/the-future-of-the-humanities-history-uks-annual-general-meeting-tickets-49041222617